The city of Granada is the capital of the province of Granada, in the community of Andalucia, Spain. Granada is located at the foot of the Sierra Nevada mountains, There is a lot to see and do in Grenada, and parents might like to go out at night, and see lots of museums during the day that kids may or may not like; but there is one museum kids will absolutely love! And that is the Natural History Museum because it's interactive! There are also lots of parks where you can go and play and lots of fun souvenir shops where you can see and buy interesting things. You can take a cab or bus to the old part of the city and walk through the gate up to the Alhambra. There is a beautiful and huge cathedral in the center of town, and lots more. This book will show some things you can see when you go to Granada, and if you are looking at this book just to learn a bit about this place, that is good too! With photographs by John D. Weigand and poetry by the award winning author attorney and former teacher, Penelope Dyan, you can't go wrong with this fun book for kids. Look for the video that goes along with this book (on YouTube) to see even more of Granada, and also watch for a Penelope Dyan travel log and kids' show on www.stop4fun.org. As a teacher Dyan likes to paint a picture for kids that will move them toward independent study, and all of these things only make step one on a learning journey that begins with this single step.
