Grandparenting From Afar: Sing Your Way To Their Heart Lorna Gail LaDage MA

When LaDage learned that she was about to become a grandparent, she was thrilled, excited, and happy...yet concerned. While she had raised three children and a stepchild, and despite many years working with children, their parents, teachers and grandparents as an elementary school counselor, and even teaching parenting classes and working as a play therapist in private practice...LaDage had doubts. The long distances between their homes meant a challenge to bonding with her new grandson. Research helped: music was an excellent way to remain close to a child, so she created a plan, singing her way to her grandson's heart. In this book, she shows how any grandparent can, step by step, stay close to their grandchild. After using these simple ideas on two grandsons, and with another one on the way, LaDage and her children are convinced that it really does help.
